

C-HR BERLIN

INNOVATION & CREATIVITY FESTIVAL

TOMORROW, TODAY.

What will the future be like? Humans have been asking themselves this question from the early beginnings. Creative and innovative people from all over the world dare to find the answers – on all the important topics of our society, e.g. design, art, architecture, culture or music. With their creativity and innovative power, they develop ideas that could greatly change our future.

C-HR Berlin celebrates those who see things differently by defining new global rules. The festival showcases creative and innovative solutions for the challenges of our time as well as the people behind them.

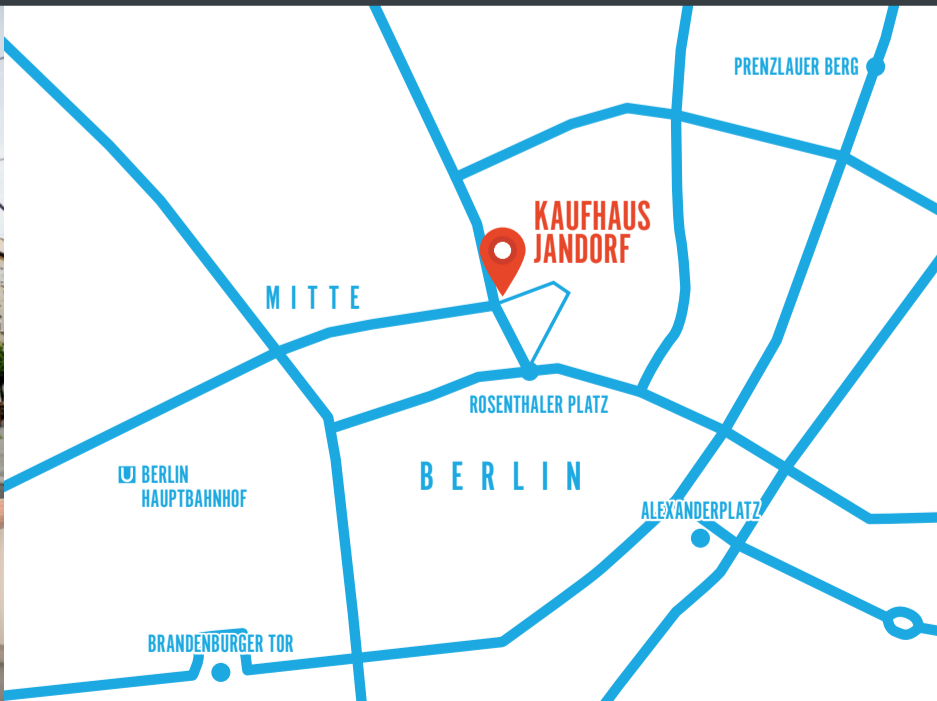

Just like our motto TOMORROW, TODAY the C-HR Festival will give you some insights about possible future solutions. Over the course of two weeks, some of the most innovative and creative leaders will present their ideas and visions with which they seek to make our world richer, easier, smarter and even more sustainable. They will set new standards, share their knowledge and inspire visitors in the historical warehouse Jandorf location, right in the middle of Berlin.

What will your future be like? Share your knowledge by attending as a speaker, workshop leader or exhibitor.
